

CAMPAIGN BUTTONS AND T-SHIRTS IN THE POLLING PLACE

New Jersey law prohibits voters from displaying campaign buttons or campaign clothing, such as hats or t-shirts, in polling places. Polling places are considered “protected zones” beginning from 100-feet outside the entrance of each polling place and extending into the polling room where the voting machine is located.

Any person who enters a polling place wearing a campaign button or campaign clothing will be asked to remove the clothing, button(s) or pin(s), cover these items or turn the clothing inside out.